Custom Pipes

- Pipes are used to transform or validate incoming data.

- NestJS allows you to create your own Custom Pipes.

- They can be used for custom validation, data transformation, or business logic filtering.

- A Pipe runs before the data hits the route handler (controller method).
- You can apply pipes at method level, controller level, or globally.
- Custom Pipes implement the PipeTransform interface.